

Tampa, Florida Resident Wins $3,000 College Scholarship

DoSomething.org Awards Scholarships to Students Creating Change Supported by Fastweb

Tampa, Florida – May 10, 2017 – John Irish, a 24-year-old from Valrico, Florida was awarded $3,000 college scholarship money for his participation in a national campaign by DoSomething.org, a global movement for good, supported by Fastweb, the premier online resource for paying and preparing students for college.

John Irish participated in “I Beat Bullying,” an anti-bullying campaign that asks students to make a sign to share tactics on how they overcame bullying. A total of 43,949 members participated in this campaign with 74,347 tactics shared, a full report of the campaign can be viewed here.

“This campaign is important to me because I believe that bullying affects everyone involved, not just the victim,” said scholarship winner John Irish. “So it is important to me to do all that I can to be a positive influence, and role model against bullying, and bigotry. Having an honest and critical conversation on disagreements is what I want everyone to strive towards, as we try to solve domestic and international issues.”
